> THE CELEBRATED MINNESOTA PATENT PROCESS FLOUR.

is without a doubt the most Beautiful and the most Nutritious Flour in the world.

The Millers have not only the most perfect Mill, containing as it does all the most improved Machinery invented up to the present time, but they produce a Flour Unsurpassed by any mill in the world. To prove that, we would simply attie that a large quantity of this magnificent Flour is shipped annually to Europe and eaten at the principal Courts of the old world. We Guarantee that it is made from selected hard wheat grown in Minnesota and Dakota. It is an acknowledged fact, that in this Floura perfect separation of the glutinous particles of the wheat berry and a thorough elimination of all weak and starchy matter has at last been reached, and is consequently more Nutritious, yielding more bread to the barrei than any other Flour. The best trade admits that from its bread making qualities it is the cheapest, as well as the best, for either family or baker's use, and unsurpassed by any Flour made. Every sack and every barrel is warranted to give entire satisfaction.

WRITTEN BY GEN. GRANT. Nearly Two Hundred Tablets Preserved by Dr. Douglas - The Originals to be Presented to the Family-Interesting

Incidents of the General's Last Days.

Special Dispatch to THE EVENING STAR. MT. McGregor, N. Y., August 3 .- Dr. Dougas has preserved nearly 200 tablets written to him by Gen. Grant during his illness. He proposes to have them lithrographed and present the originals to the family. This morning your correspondent was given opportunity to look at some of them. Shortly after Gen. Grant began to find it difficut to talk from the manner in which the cancer affected the vocal cords, he wrote as follows on the 29th of June to Dr. Douglas: "I shall have to be careful about my writing. I see every person I give a piece of paper to puts it in his pocket. Some day they will be coming up against my English." It was Gen. Grant's style to read up books concerning the history of the war and the records of the rebellion very closely and carefully, and then to sit down and write for hours at a stretch on his memoirs.

he wrote the following: "I said I had been adding to my book and to my coffin. I presume every strain on the mind or body is one more nail in the coffin." In conversing with Dr. Douglas about his book, Gen. Grant said he lay awake nights after he had been reading up, and planned what he should write, and that up, and planned what he should write, and that sometimes his thoughts kept him awake perhaps longer than they should. On the 27th of June, at 10 a.m., the general wrote: "I don't talk, because my mouth is easy and I want to keep so as long as possible. If I should get up now I would probably go to work preparing something for reading up." Before the above tablets were written the patient had told Dr. Douglas that he had finished about what he had on hand of his memoranda, for his book was constantly on his mind, randa, for his book was constantly on his mind, and whenever he was depressed or weariness overcame him, he seemed to find comfort and relief in his work. On the same day in the af ternoon he work. On the same day in the arternoon he wrote a tablet saying that he had been at work despite what he had said in the morning. He wrote at 4 o'clock in the afternoon: "I wrote four pages. I tore it off and have it. I must read up before I can write prop-HIS VIEWS ON LINCOLN AND STANTON.

since you left there. Think I feel more like work than any time since I have been here. I will try to rest a little, however. I worked and feel a little weak from it, but I cannot sleep. From 7 this morning I have dozed off a few times, but not half an hour in the aggregate. I have been writing up my views of some of our generals and of the character of Lincoln and Stanton. I don't place Stanton as some people. Mr. Lincoln cannot be exalted too highly."

Most of the tablets, all of them with a few exceptions in fact refer to the symptoms of the ceptions, in fact, refer to the symptoms of the disease. On June 29th, at 4 p.m., he wrote: This is always the trouble; no matter how well I get along the balance of the twenty-four nours, when the middle of the afternoon comes begin to feel stuffy, stopped up, and general y incomfortable." On the 30th of June the general wrote the following: "The atmosphere here enables me to live in comparative comfort while I am being treated or while nature is taking its course with my disease. I have no idea that I should have been able to come here now if I had renained in the city. It is doubtful whether would have been alive now. I would be much better able to move back than I was to come up at the time I did." This the general signed with his name, "U. S. Grant." On the 1st of July the general expressed the wish to have wine discontinued, and wrote as follows: "I have not taken any wine in six days. So far as I have tried, I don't think alco-holic drinks agree with me. They seem to heat me up, and have no other effect." Gen. Grant had periods of despondency, and when he was despondent he always seemed to fear that he might strangle or choke to death. Dr. Dougas assured him that there was no danger of this, provided assistance was near. This allayed the despondency of his patient.
On July 3d the general wrote as follows: "There are times when I could not recover if left to myself. What is to be my fateto-night doctor: will I have to lay awake making it a study? It is about as much as I could stand to go through another night." His anxiety not to be left alone too was the very reason why Dr. Douglas remained by him so faithfully and so constantly ready for any emergency. July 4th at 7 p. m. he wrote: "I have been getting dong very well to-day. There is a growing weakness, however."

A BIG FIRE IN TORONTO. Thrilling Scenes-Loss of Life. TORONTO, ONT., August 3 .- At 12:30 this morn-Toronto, Ont., August 3.—At 12:30 this morning the worst fire that has ever visited Toronto broke out in the mammoth eight-story brick building on the south side of the esplanade, at the foot of Princess street, known as the Glucose factory. At this time the heat was so intense that the firemen could barely go within half a block of the burning building They were utterly powerless to stay the flames, which totally defied their gallant but puny efforts. A rumor was soon current that Henry Wort, one of the workmen in the factory, was missing. He was seen a few minutes before the fire was discovered, and, it is said, went after the books of the company. A most diligent search failed to discover a clue to his wherearoused by the loud crackling noise of the flames. When they got out on deck the cabin and rigging of the vessel were enveloped in flames. RICHMOND, VA., August 3.—Capt. Stacy Jarvis, of the schooner Sarah Cullen, was accidentally killed this morning on board his vessel. He was standing near the hatchway when a large bucket, used in the discharge of coal, broke loose while some distance above him, and fell upon his head, knocking him down the hatchway into the hold. THE RATS AND CHINAMEN DRIVEN FROM CHICAGO, August 3.—The great rain storm stopped at midnight. The total rainfall in the preceding twelve hours was 5.58 inches more than the entire rainfall during the month of August in either of the last three years, and the greatest fall within the time specified on record. The fall was so great and rapid that the sewers were unable to carry off the volume of water THEIR QUARTERS.

Many of the Grant decorations on public and private buildings are bedraggled and torn. The damage by the flooding of basements, was heavy. Early in the afternoon basements and cellars that were more than ten feet in depth, soon contained between two and three feet of water. Thousands of rats poured from the sewers and the basements as the water began to fill up the conduits. The rats ran around the streets, scurrying hither and thither in their search for places of safety. Not unlike them were the Chinamen, all of whom occupy deep basements. Nearly every Celestial in the city found himself without a place to lay his head, and late into the night they were seen hunting lodging-houses. Numberless families were forced to leave the basements in which they lived and seek for temporary apartments above the level of the streets. Gent's India Gauze Shirts, 50c.; worth 75c.

The New Orleans Picayune has been a little The New Orleans Picayune has been a little bantering in its tones, or so the Eustis men have imagined, and the feeling has grown very bitter. During the visit of the editor of that paper to this city a short time ago, a dispatch, dated Washington, appeared in the paper, which said: "There are two sets of rascals to turn out in Louisiana, and the cabinet knows it. To have turned out one set of rascals and turned in another set upon the custom house would have been a sad blow to Louisiana." The Eustis men accredited this dispatch to the editor of the paper, and the chairman of the democratic state committee wrote a card over his signature mentioning the names of several his signature mentioning the names of several unsuccessful candidates for federal favors, and said that if the writer of the dispatch intended his remarks for any of them he branded him "as a miserable liar."

Senator Eustis is due from Europe in New York to-day, and it is supposed that he will take a hand in a bitter anti-administration movement, and that Louisiana politics will continue to get hotter.

The men then made for the south end of the wharf and jumped into the water and swam to the adjoining wharf. In doing this, however, they were all more or less burned. William McCallum suffered a terrible scorching, and the captain of the schooner, Thomas Aglow, of Port Hope, and James McCallum, a brother of William, were also pretty badly burned. The Annie Mulvey, which was owned by Alderman Hall, and valued at $20,000, was burned to the water's edge in less than half an hour. The rapidity with which the flames spread was nothing short of a marvel. A strong dead-east wind, amounting at times to almost a hurricane, was blowing when the fire broke out. Great sparks and burning cinders were blown westward with great rapidity, and by two o'clock the flames had reached the foot of Scott street. Almost everything in its wake, stationary and afloat, from Princess to Yonge street, a distance of over half a mile, was burned. It is utterly impossible at this moment to give any idea of the amount of the loss, but it will foot up to over one million dollars. It was nearly 5 o'clock before the fire was got under control. A light rain began falling at about 4 o'clock, and the wind shifted to the northwest and the firemen were able to check the flames just as they reached Yonge street dock. The flames, very luckily, were confined to the south side of the esplanade and the valuable buildings on the north side of the control. This is the same woman who a few weeks ago created a sensation at the staid old Kimball house in Atlanta, Ga. She told everybody there with whom she could, upon any reasonable pretext get up a conversation, that she had become the wife of a wealthy man when only 13 years of age, and that he had died soon afterwards, leaving her an immense herd of cattle and a quantity of Texas land. The Constitution reporter being skeptical, telegraphed to Houston for particulars, and was informed that the correct name of the woman was Mrs. Nathan Sam, and that she was the divorced wife of a shoe man, and was by no means well fixed financially. He intimatted these facts to the "Cattle Queen," and she thereupon publicly threatened to blow his brains out. The Duration of a Royal Honeymoon

From the London World.

There is infallible authority in the royal family for the practice of a forty-eight hours' honey-moon. The prince consort laid it down that a solitude a deux of that duration was the right thing, and Princess Beatrice is to have no more. Moreover, the queen will lunch with the newly-married couple within the forty-eight hours enjoined by the paternal precept. It is not wonderful that the queen should cling—apart from any tenderer feelings—to the most sprightly and decisive of her children, the best camerade that ever mother had in the person of a daughter.

Mr. Robert Garrett anys that all rumors of any arrangement by the B. and O. Telegraph with the Western Union company are false.

election to the presidency was unsought and undesired by him. After my return in November, 1872, from a Congress held in the chief city of northeastern Congress held in the chief city of northeastern Europe to attend which the President had delegated me, I called to turnish some commercial information he had asked for to embody in his message, and met him in front of the White House. In thanking him for my appointment I mentioned the fact that at a dinner given by a member of the imperial family I sat beside the Baron de R—, grand master of the court of the emperor and his confidential friend, who inquired what was the difference between Gen. Grant and his opponent, Mr. Greeley, as both were republicans. After I had stated the difficulty of giving a satisfactory explanation the culty of giving a satisfactory explanation the President said: "You might have told him that the difference between us was Mr. Greeley wanted the office and I didn't." This expression, the longest that Gen. Grant ever made to me, convinced me that this great man did not desire a re-election to that high office—an expression that no other qualified person could have truthfully said. He then walked beside me to the eastern gate, apparently absorbed in thought, without uttering And yet the remains of such a man, who be-longed to the nation and for whom the united nation mourns, must be interred elsewhere than at the nation's capital. The Latest London Scandals. THE STORY ABOUT SIR CHARLES DILKE GIVING ACTER.

Cable dispatches from London state "that fresh charges, involving another member of the Gladstone cabinet, are being revealed. The ex-minister referred to was not like Dilke a sympathizer with infidels and member of clubs instituted to overthrow the throne, but a man who has hitherto enjoyed the personal confi-dence of the Queen and who is second only to Gladstone himself in his influence in the coun-Gladstone himself in his influence in the country and over the liberal party. It transpired that this high personage maintains two establishments—one in London and one on the continent. The case the outraged husband scornfully declines to settle either with pistol, sword or gold. Nothing will satisfy but the shame and disgrace of a full disclosure in the public courts? "The latest scandal affects Eton school, the highest institution of its kind in the land, which is situated just across the river from the royal castle and park of Windsor. It has now been castle and park of Windsor. It has now been ascertained that for months past hordes of abandoned women from the surrounding towns and from London have had a rendezvous at Windsor. They were met at night by school boys sixteen or seventeen years old and driven around the district in carriages. The example of the big boys was speedily imitated by the younger lads. Becoming more daring, they invaded Windsor park with the women. An exhaustive secret inquiry followed the discovery of these facts. The result was that nearly three hundred boys made full conjessions, and all the nundred boys made full contessions, and all the guilty ones were forbidden to return to Eton next term. The head master forbore expelling them publicly to prevent scandal, and, moreover, because boys expelled from Eton are forever ineligible for appointment in the army, the navy or the church, and have their prospects in the herelessly weakerd." pects in life hopelessly wrecked." AN AGRARIAN OUTRAGE IN IRELAND.—A dispatch from Dublin gives an account of an agrarian outrage which occurred at Carrick-on-Suir, in the County Tipperary. The house of one Quinlan, a small farmer at that place, was set on fire in the night and burned to the ground. Quinlan and his wife and children had barely time to escape with their lives, after being awakened by the barking of their dogs. Quinlan only recently took possession of the house and farm, which had been boycotted because of the eviction of the former tenant.

Rest, mother, rest, your care and toll is ended,

Your trials over and your work well done;
At Heaven's gate, by angel guards attended,
Your crown was given you for the victory won.
Rest, mother, rest, and peaceful be thy slumber,
Your dear hands folded o'er your gentle breast;
Ever o'er your grave shall blessings without number.
Fall from the lips of those your deeds have bies Rest, mother, rest, your loving words shall linger
To soothe and guide us through the coming years,
'Till God shall touch with His eternal finger
And turn to joy the fountain of our tears.
Oh, mother, when at holy evening hours
The stars look down from out the sky of blue,
And dew drops tremble on the sleeping flowers,
With reverence then our thoughts shall turn to you.

Rest, mother, rest, your cross is w reathed in roses
No brighter joy to child of earth is given,
For while in sleep your precious form reposes,
Your spirit wakes to nobler life in Heaven.
Oh, gentle southwind, touch the chords of sweetne
With tender measures of an artist's hand—
'Bound mother's grave let music's full completene
Echo above, to Heaven's sweet summer-land. Rest, mother, rest, we love thee now as ever,
And though with care our souls may be opper.
Not even death, a mother's love can sever—
Life's dearest friend, divinest, purest, best.
While by thy grave we kneel with strong emot
And breathe our earnest benedictions there.
We know that when across life's troubled occas
We'll meet again in answer to our prayer.
